SADLY GRIEVED.

Mrs. Kinnie Murrell, who was born and reared in Columbia, and who was a favorite with all who intimately knew her, died. without a struggle, at her home at the hour and date above given, her bed being surrounded with relatives and friends.

She was the youngest child of H. G. and Eliza Atkins, and was 63 years old the 3rd of last December, and with the exception of about three years, her entire life was spent in this place. The young people were especially ley, County of Adair, State of Kenfond of her company, and the news of tucky, at the Close of Business on the her death will bring sorrow to many hearts.

When quite a young girl she made a profession of her faith in Christ, united with the Southern Methodist Church, making a faithful member until the final dissolution. She lived her religion at home as well as at the church, believing in the Word she taught and practiced it daily When quite a young woman she was married to Charles H. Murrell, who preceded her to the grave nearly eleven years ago. To this union there was one child, Miss Katie, the well-known teacher, who survives her.

The heritage she left her daughter is priceless. No parent and child were ever more devoted, and no daughter ever shed more tears over the departure of a loving mother.

The people of Columbia were especially attentive when her serious illness became known, and a number of telegrams and letters came from friends in and out of the State, and during her illness many beautiful the above named Bank do solemnly swear that flowers came through the mail to her the above statement is true to the best of our sick chamber.

The funeral services were held at the Methodist church this (Tuesday) afternoon at 3 o'clock, conducted by Rev. R. V. Bennett, pastor of the Methodist church, assisted by Rev. Jesse L. Murrell.

At the close of religious services the body was conveyed to the city cemetery, the Eastern Star Chapter, of this place, marching in a body, and when, at the grave, they recited their beautiful and touching burial cere-

HINTS FOR THE POULTRY GROWER

When culling a flock of hens at the end of the laying season, there are always a few individuals that may be classed as doubtful. Very often the owner of the birds allows sympathy to interiere with good business. According to G. W. Hervey of the University of Missouri college of agricultare, it is better to cull a bird that may lay five or six more eggs only this fall than to keep her all winter as an absolute expense.

A hen may show the characteristic Jody depth of three or more fingers and yet may have but a one-finger spread between the pelvic bones. This means that the bird has stopped laying but her period of non-production hasn't been long enough for the body depth to close up also. She has just reached the point where she will be kept at a loss.

Sometimes a bird may exhibit the desired characteristics of both good body depth and well-spread pelvic bones, yet her skin under the fluff may feel tough and leathery. Such a hen will invariably have coarse pelvic bones and a coarse breast bone. She may have had a period of production during the summer, but her total for the year would not justify retaining her another season.

In culling the American breeds, the Wyandotte, Plymouth Rock and Rhode Island Red, one is apt to be confused by the shank color test. The test is not so reliable with these heavier breeds as it is with Leghorns, for the reason that when they become broody a certain amount of pigment is likely to return to the shank. One must make due allowance for this, and if the bird is favorable in appearance otherwise, It may be profitable to keep her over as a breeder for the spring season.

In general, then, the poultry keeper when culling must not be influenced by any single factor, but must consider all of them. The more rigid the culling the more capable is the flock management. It is usually safe to market at least half of the total number of hens at the end of the laying season, replacing them with pullets.

Why More Small Cars Come Equipped With Goodyear Tires

Last year, more small cars, using 30 x 3.  $30 \times 3\frac{1}{2}$ , or  $31 \times 4$ -inch tires, were factory equipped with Goodyear Tires than with any other kind.

This is plainly a result of the high relative value produced in these small-car tires by Goodyear's enormous resources and scrupulous care.

They represent the same intense endeavor to supply utmost satisfaction in tires that has laid the basis for the marked preference which exists everywhere for Goodyear Tires in the larger sizes.

This real Goodyear value in tires is available for your Ford, Chevrolet, Dort, Maxwell, or other small car, at our nearest Service Station. Go there for these tires and Goodyear Heavy Tourist Tubes.

The Year 1920 Will Be One Fraught With Momentous Making of History.

In the libraries of the future, the historical volumes, marked 1920, will deal with a critical period of the world's history.

The whole world is now in a frenzy of discontent. In the old world new parties with new policies, each striving for controle, are walking hand in hand with the spectre of distrust, where they are not already dying in the flame of fratricidal war.

In the United States profiteering has become a science, all sense of vulues is gone Bolshevism is raising its vicious head, and labor and capital, by passing the buck, each to the other, are leaving the middle class bearing the brunt of the burden.

It is a critical period through which this world is passing, and one that demands the whole-souled interest of every thinking man and woman in this world.

You can not perform your duties as a citizen of this country unless you think right. you can not think right unless you are fully informed; you can nrt be fully informed unless you rerd a daily newnpaper.

As a citizen, and as a voter, you wish to vote intelligently. You wish to know what the leaders of the big political parties are offering as the panacea for this present condition. In order to perform this duty intelligently, you must have access to the news as it is published day by day.

Granted that it is your duty to read a daily newspaper, it is also your duty to read the paper that will give you the most news, particularly when its cost is the same as the others.

The Louisville Herald has the largest circulation of any morning newspaper in Ken tucky, and all Louisville newspapers are sold at the same price, this is self-evedent proof that it is considered the best paper by the most people.

The Louisville Herald gives you the news from the Associated Press, that wonderful news gathering organization, which covers the entire world with its list of correspondents; in addition it gives you all the news from Europe that is gathered by the Universal News Service; this in addition to The Herald's own list of special correspondents and its editorial staff. Nonewspaper can give you more than this -few can give you as much.

The Louisville Herald, apart from its general news value, thoroughly covers the financial world, and keeps you fully informed as to the daily fluctuations on all marketable commodities. News of the world of sports is more than a tabulation of sporting events, as compiled for The Herald's sport page.

The Louisville Herald contains more features of general family interest than we have space to specify in the short space of this advertisement; but we will say this much, that there is something of interest to every member of your family in every issue. We will, if you are unfamiliar with The Herald, gladly send you a sample copy on request. We would suggest that in order to protect yourself against a raise in subscription price for the coming year, that you give your order to your local agent now; if there is none in your town, send in the coupon below.

RELIEF MEASURES FOR COMING YEAR TOLD BY RED CROSS

OLLOWING exhaustive reports from its various Commissions to European countries, the American Red Cross can define fairly well the foreign relief program for the ensuing year.

It is now clear that in the rehabilitation of nations and countries devastated by the war, the problem of vitality and the building up of man-power takes the first place in Red Cross activities. Further, it is evident that the feeding of foreign peoples, as well as general material relief is not a field which can be assumed by the Red Cross. There remains, however, the problem of sickness and disease, and particularly a diminished and weakened child population, which none of a position to meet with its own resources, but where the American Red pensable aid and service.

Recognizing these facts, the Red Cross effort in Europe during recent months has been concentrated more and more on establishing and extenddom of religions. The action of the ing through the countries of Eastern Southern Methodists is the beginning Europe, as well as Siberia, a construcof a vast scheme of missionary activitive health service, looking not only coward relief in the immediate situation but also toward the establishment of permanent health service built on national foundations in each country

The medical and surgical supplies of all kinds made available for use by the Red Cross by a recent Act of Congress at once enable the Red Cross to plan this effort in medical relief on a broad, comprehensive and constructive scale. The $15,000,000 asked by the Red Cross in the Third Roll Call, November 2-11, will be devoted, therefore, largely to the administration of this program and making effective the distribution of materials derived from surplus Army supplies. The materials for general relief to be administered in addition to and in connection with the above will be obtained largely from supplies now in the possession of the Red Cross, or will be covered by small expenditure where purchase may prove necessary.

This program permits not only a definition in scope of the work to be carried on, but a limitation in time, presumably a period of one year. At the expiration of that time the work of the Red Cross abroad will have been largely rounded out, and activities concentrated on a program of service to

HE American Red Cross is now conducting operations in seventeen European countries. In Poland the government is taking over certain parts of the American Red Cross activities so that the Red Cross can move into new fields of relief work. The policy of the American Red Cross is to establish relief activities wherever great need exists, then to encourage local agncies to take over the established work and carry it on. With a personnel of a hundred, the Red Cross has been making great inroads on the typhus epidemic and has enlisted the aid of 300 Polish personnel, mostly young women who have been taught the rudiments of American ideas of hygiene. After a few months, the Americans in many places were able to leave the work of sanitation to Polish units. The American Red Cross has supplied modern steam sterilizers, 30 mobile laundries, 50,000

"No More New Duds Until Prices Go Down," Popular Slogan With Englishmen

Fashionable London tailors are said to be somewhat perturbed over the reported popularity of a clothes conservation "movement" hailing from the United States which is being enthusiastically acclaimed by Englishmen wearied of long continued high clothing costs.

Over there, the "movement" has manifested itself in the organization of "old clothes' leagues"—societies with the single-pledge slogan-"no more new clothes until prices go down."

Those who assume this pledge are expected to regard patches on trousers, shiny coatsleeves and sewn-up splits in boots and shoes as badges of honor. The turning of old suits, sewing in of new linings and other neces-sary alterations which make an old trousers, coat and yest serve the purpose of a new suit at one-third the cost is another part of the practical application of the "league" precepts.
